Donnelsville Elementary Celebrates Right to Read Week

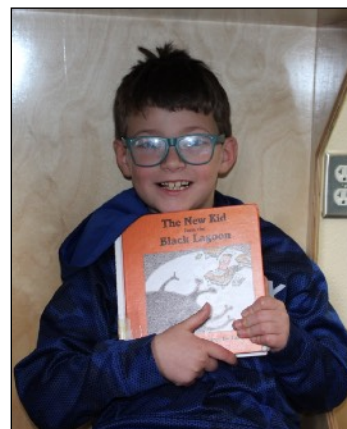

The students and staff at Donnelsville celebrated Right to Read week the week before spring break. The theme for the week was "Mad About Reading" and there were many fun activities and contests for everyone to enjoy.

Each day there was a mystery reader who read a poem over the announcements and the students could guess who the reader was. We had Miss Maggie from the New Carlisle Public Library. Tuesday was Miss Angie from our cafeteria. Deputy Loney was Wednesday's reader. Thursday was Mr. Hume, our PE teacher, and Friday was Mrs. Enloe, the music teacher. Three students were picked as the winners from the correct guesses each day.

Donnelsville students could also participate in a "Design a Basketball Jersey" contest. Students took home blank jerseys and decorate them for their favorite book or book character. A group of 3 teachers judged the entries and fourth grader Isaura Bucio was named the winner.

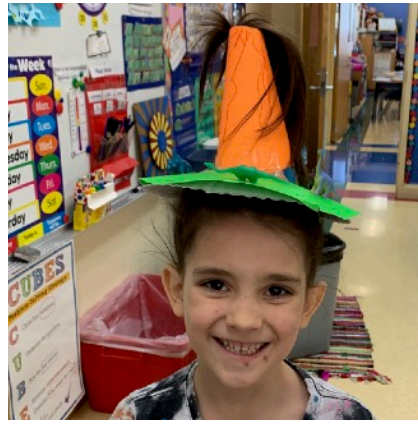

The sixteen classroom teachers all decorated their doors for a favorite author. Each door design was put into a March Madness bracket and students voted on the winners each day. The winning door (pictured right) was done by Mrs. Cabral's 4th grade class with Kate DiCamillo.

Lastly, Donnelsville had Spirit Days for Right to Read Week. Monday was Inside Out Day, Tuesday was Hats off to Reading, Wednesday was Wearable Words, Thursday was Wild Hair Day, and Friday is Team up for Reading (wear your favorite sports team).

Park Layne Elementary Wins Food Drive Challenge

During the Heritage of Flight Festival, all schools in the district were challenged to beat the other schools by bringing in the most food items to donate to help local families. The students of Park Layne Elementary rose to the challenge by bringing in a "mile of food." As a reward for their hard work and generosity, the kindergartens and first graders were treated to an assembly with Silly Safaris where they got to see a wide variety of animals. The school was also presented with a trophy for winning the contest.
